One Republican source says that GOP strategists are talking about sending segregationist Strom Thurmond through the South three weeks before the election to woo away Wallace supporters.

I don't know what kind of transportation he would use, if he makes the tour. But it probably wouldn't be the big Cadillac he drives.

He's been very protective about his limousine since someone sneaked into his underground parking space at Harbour Square apartments while he was away king-making at the Republican Convention and decorated his treasure with a swastika. The imaginative vandals also pasted on the bumper a Martin Luther King sticker that says "I have a dream . . . one world."

Harbour Square, which is integrated, is also where Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey lives.
